

A is back on the streets again. She slipped up a couple of weeks ago, and all the old warning signs were present that she was about to disappear again. She passed it off as a minor incident, would not restart her sobriety date, and now we've not heard from her for over two weeks. We will probably next meet her in the county jail. 70 times 7....

Share this page: